The London Times of the 19th makes the following comments on the treaty of peace, signed between Austria and France:—

The London Times of the 19th makes the following comments on the treaty of peace, signed between Austria and France:

The terms were almost identical with those agreed to at Villafranca. Austria retains a portion of her Lombardy, the terms of which hability, as arranged by the King of the debt contracted in the name of Lombardy, the terms of which hability, as arranged by the King of the Belgians, will be embodied massecend treaty to be signed to-morrow. As far as peaceable means go, France will endeavor to carry out the restoration of the scaled families of Tucany, Parna, and Modena, though we have it from the official staten ents of the Imperial Government that Narotson will not enforce, nor parnet Austria to enforce the return of the fugitive Sovereigns. Of the union of Italy under the presidency of the P-pe we hear little. It is probable that the Holy Father has at present enough to do in keeping his own dominions from revolt, and is far from being eitner able or willing to never twent to war for military remove, and to strengthon his throne by gratifying the ambition of his army and people. The victories of Magenta and Solferino were to him not means, but ends. The deliverance of Italy was but a secondary object with the master of half a militon solders, confictut in his own per fessional capacity, and anxious to prove his theoretical acquirements against those of the slow and pedantic, though highly instructed. Austrians. Victory was to be its own reward, and when the forces of the enemy were driven from field to field, the Emperor might well conducte a war and turn a humbled for into an admiring ally.

On this view of the Emperor's polley we may pronounce it to have been perfectly successful. He has shown how easily the French people can be ied to obly a strong-minded ruler, and how sud tenly the oil instincts of giory and nations that his power is secure for a least some years to come. The Emperor has been normous. He has satisfied the impatience of the army, seftened the rancer of the Republicans, sile do nothing to oppose the return of flightives to their States. His consent binds hisself, but it does not bind the Tuscans and Modenese, who have now taken the matter into their own hands. They and the inhabitants of Romagna have been placed in a state of revolution by events over which they originally had no control. Legitimate government ceased by the flight of the Sovereigns, and they have now organized for themselvesimatin has with which no one has a right to interfere. Both Austria and France have consented to the return of the Dukes, but the former has equally bound herself not to interfere by arms in Italy, and the latter is not obliged to take any steps in the affeir. Let them both slide by the decision of the people whose interests are excussively involved. If Tuscany replaces the Grand Duke, and the Remagna submits to the Pose, well and good: but if they resist the friendity advices of the two Fowers, then the Franch Emperor may, with a good conselence, say that his promises have been literally performed.

The Strike in the Building Trade.

The Strike in the Building Trade.

Although the negotiations for the settlement of the differences between the master-builders and their workmen unfortunately proved abortive, and the strike still continues, there is no prospect of its wearing itself out, for both matters and men are become tired of their inaction. The former are gradually giving way, and opening their yards without asking the men to subscribe to the document, and, on the other hand, the laborers are getting discontented at the smallness of their weakly allowance, and if their services could be employed independently of those of the skilled workmen, there is very little doubt they would not, as far as they are correctly be very anxious to prelong the state of estrangement which has already continued too long.

A public meeting of the plasterers of the metropolis was held yesterday evening at St. Martin's Hall, Long-acre, to take into consideration their present position. The chair was taken by Mr. W. Macnamara. Mr. Nyas proposed a resolution declaring that they believed that they had made every equitable concession to the employers, by agreeing to the four points which were submitted to them by Mr. Ayrron, M. P. on Tuesday last, and that they were determined never to resume work till the detestable declaration had been unconditionally withdrawn. He observed that the building trades would never be engaged in such a struggle as this again, and the perseverance would save the necessity for future struggles, which would be made in vain. Mr. H. Jarvis seconded the resolution.

Mr. Whereler, in supporting it, said the conference had paid the dividends regularly and fairly, notwithstanding the false reports to the contrary. Mr. Nyas read a resolution of the Ancient Order of Foresters, expressing a determination to assist the men on strike. The resolution before the meeting was then passed unanimously, and the meeting separated.—London Times, Oct. 18.

Horrible Massacze by Indians.

The latest Sait Lake mail brings the details of another Indian massacze, which occurred 25 miles west of Fort Hall, on Lander's Cut-off, on the night of the 2d of September, on a party, consisting of 6 men, 3 women and 10 children, part from Michigan, and part from Buchanan county, Iowa. The massacze must have been a most horrible one. The emigrants were surrounded just as they were about camping, and shot down before they had time for defense. Some who escaped, fell in soon after with a company of dragoons under command of Lieutenunt Livingston, who sent a detachment to the massacze. The following is the description of what they found:—

After informing the command of our distress, Lieut. Livingston sent a detachment of nine men, with one of our company to pilot them to the place of the massacze. On their arrival they found the dead bodies of five persons on the ground, out of the eight that were missing. The dead were horribly mangled and scalped. One little girl, five years old, had both her legs cut off at the knees; her ears were also cut off, and her eyes were dug out from their sockets; and to all appearances the girl, after having her legs cut off, had been compelled to walk on the stumps, for the sole purpose of gratifying the hellish propensity of savage barbarity. Their animals were taken and their wagans plundered according to the usual mode of Indian spoliation. The names of the murdered are—Envance missing—Mrs. Milthmorr. Amorr. Milthmorr. The Cincinnati papers give full accounts of a meeting of some of the cinzens of Newport, Ky., and the subsequent mobbing of the Free South newspaper office, and the destruction of the material on which the paper was printed. When the mob reached the office, Mr. BAILEY appeared at one of the windows and remonstrated with the mob, at the same time stating that the columns of his paper were open to all who felt themselves aggrieved—The leader of the mob informed him that the best thing he could do was to open stating that the could do was to open the door, and allow them to remove his goods, and no harm would be done to him or his family. This he refused to do; whereupon some one procured a piece-of scantling, with which they battered the door open. The house was then entered, and all the printing material carried down stairs and placed in a wagon. They then endeavored to get the press down stairs, but were foiled in their efforts by its getting fast in the stairway, where they left it. About this time one of the girls procured a backet filled with yellow other, which she scattered over the crowd rearest the house. This seemed to have a moving effect, for they immediately left with their planeer and preceded to the ferry boat, with the view of transporting it to the Ohio side of the river; but they had no scener reached the wharf than they changed their mixed and threw everything into the river. Some of the better disposed citizens attempted to stop this, but their efforts were without avail. A meeting was afterwards held, and a committee of fifty appointed, whose duty it is to see that the Free South shall not be reestablished in Newport.

The Cincinnati Commercial of October 31, says: A number of persons then seized a ladder lying upon the pavement and attempted to place it against a window in the second story, but a painter who was at work there appeared at the window and threatened to burl a hatchet at the first who would at tempt to ascend. A young man named Baray Taylon immediately produced a revolver, but it was wrested from his grasp by one of the bystanders. A heavy plank was then procured by the assailants, and used as a battering ram against the door, which burst open by one ponderous blow. Upon attempting to enter the premises, however, Miss Elexanor, daughter of Mr. Barley, appeared at a third story window, armed with a brick-bat, and threatened to throw it at whoever approached. Now commenced a ridiculous scree between the assailants and Miss Elexanor, who showed her datermination to execute her threat

The U. S. isteam Frigate Niagara.

The U. S. isteam Frigate Niagara has recently had a series of experiments and improvements made on her machinery, the last of which has just been completed and tested to the satisfaction of the Chief Engineer, Mr. Riso. This improvement consists of the attachment to the reversing gear of a new cylinder that will start and stop the engines by steam, instead of the old methed by hand. As this innovation is of considerable importance, it will be extensively used. Mr. Riso is making quite a revolution in the old time-worn machinery of the Navy Yard. For a number of years eleven steam boilers have been making steam for nine enginee, and evaporating only about four or five pounds of wa'er to a pound of c.al. These are to be removed and replaced by new ones, the construction of which will soon commence. The latter will all be placed in one boiler house, with steam pipes leading to the different enginee, and to suit buildings as need heating by steam.

Frem 700 to 800 tons of coal can thus be saved annually without even running the great risk of fire—as the boiler houses are intended to be fire-proct—which is at present so imminent.
